SECURITY COUNCIL MUST HOLD MILITARY JUNTA IN BURMA CRIMINALLY ACCOUNTABLE

The Burma Lawyers' Council and the Global Justice Center urge the United Nations Security Council to take all actions necessary to stop the murders of innocent people in Burma and hold the military junta commanders criminally accountable. This includes authorizing peacekeeping forces and creating an independent commission of inquiry to investigate on-going crimes. Violence is a tool of the military junta, the State Peace and Development Council (SPDC), to retain control over the people of Burma who are prisoners, not citizens. The latest massacre in Burma must be the last, no more impunity for criminal actions such as the massacre of people in 1988 popular uprising and of supporters of pro-democracy leader Daw Aung San Sui Kyi in 2003 in Depayin, as Crime Against Humanity. It is the obligation of the international community to stop the junta from using murder, torture, and rape as tools to maintain power.

Crimes perpetrated by the Burmese military leaders should not be buried under the rubric of human rights violations, but called what they are: war crime, crimes against humanity and potentially even genocide. The perpetrators listed below should be held criminally accountable by the international community.

Commanders who are responsible under international criminal law for ordering the recent heinous crimes against peaceful protestors in Burma include:

- Than Shwe, Chairman, State Peace and Development Council and Commander-in-Chief, Tatmawdaw
- General Kyaw San, Minister of Information
- Colonel Tint San (Infantry No. 16)
- Major Ye Zaw Zaw (Infantry No. 16)
